Truck Hits Culvert, Man Is Killed

HUNTSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A Mulberry man was killed yesterday when a cattle truck in which he was riding crashed into a culvert on state Highway 73 about five miles south of Huntsville.

Dead was Charles Raymond Jackson, 54.

State Police said Jackson was a passenger in the truck driven by C. J. Jackson, the dead man's brother, who was uninjured.

Car, Truck Collide at Walnut & Division

At Division and Walnut Streets this morning a pickup truck driven by James Lindsey, pulled away from the curb and hit an auto driven by Joe S. Watson, City Police reported. Both vehicles had fender, bumper and door damage.

Officers charged Lindsey with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Mongrel Mutt May Be Victim of Prosperity

NEW YORK (AP) — The mongrel dog, the flea-bitten mutt beloved of children—may be on the way out in this country.

He is becoming a victim of prosperity, according to Milton M. Weiss, president of the Animal Insurance Co. of America.

"In 1953 there were 28 million dogs in the United States and 15 million were pedigreed," said Weiss. "Today our dog population is 30 million, and 18 million are pedigreed."

"In a few short years there has been a decline of about one million in the number of non-pedigreed dogs."

"The reason is simple. People have been buying more expensive homes and cars—and they also have been upgrading their pets."

There were chorales of laughter last fall when Weiss founded the nation's first firm devoted exclusively to life insurance for pedigreed dogs.

"We feel the average pedigreed dog is worth at least $300. Actually it costs about that much each year to raise one."

This estimate would give the nation's 18 million pedigreed dogs a total value of around $5.4 billion.

Weiss's firm will insure pedigreed dogs.

Cotton Most Confusing Farm Problem

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cotton poses probably the most confusing farm commodity problem facing the administration and Congress.

There continues to be a surplus of cotton insofar as quantity is concerned. But some experts say there is a potential shortage of some of the better grades because of the poor quality of last year's weather-plagued crop.

In a report to its 32-member cotton exporting and importing nations yesterday, the International Cotton Advisory Committee said there no longer is a surplus of the higher grades. It said a tight supply situation with regard to these grades may develop later this year.

Similar warnings are being issued by domestic cotton mills.

Yet, in the face of these forecasts, the government is continuing rigid production and marketing quotas on the crop this year. Planting allotments have been set at the minimum level permitted by law. In addition, the Agriculture Department is offering farmers payments to take a part or all of their allotments out of program.

On the other hand, some cotton-state members of Congress as well as leaders in the cotton industry are urging the government to increase this year's planting allotments. Secretary of Agriculture Benson says farm law gives him authority, under emergency conditions, to raise allotments above the level determined by a farm law formula which takes supply and demand factors into consideration.

But Benson hesitates to raise the allotments. In fact, he indicates that he may not do so unless Congress directs him. He sees the possibility of tight supplies of some grades. But he doesn't like the idea of asking farmers to plant more cotton at the same time it is offering them subsidies to plant less.

This year's cotton developments could have far-reaching effect on future cotton programs and markets.

Because total supplies are smaller than last year, it will be necessary for Benson to raise price supports for the crop. Under

Have to Be Dead to Win This Contest

ALTA, Mo., (AP) — To win this contest you have to be dead.

There are a few strings, however. You have to be killed in a traffic accident, due to careless and reckless driving. It has to take place in February and it has to be in the Troop 1 area of the Missouri State Highway Patrol—Phelps, DeWitt, Crawford, Maries, Pulaski and Laclede counties.

The payoff—for the first to die under the prescribed rules—is a free funeral.

The contest is sponsored by Radio Station KTFR here.

To be eligible you first have to send a post card to the station addressed to "Free Funeral Contest—KTFR," giving your name and address.

The station said likely winners would be those who drove while drinking; make turns without signaling; exceed speed limits as posted; and those who "show off."

General manager of the station in the presence of their friends, sponsoring the traffic safety contest is Luther W. Martin.

"KTFR will regret having to pay our good money for your funeral," Martin said. "But more important, KTFR will regret losing a valued listener."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase.

Block Section of Cotton Plant Burns

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — A block-section of a cotton hull storage and processing plant last night.

Flames of unknown origin had engulfed the portion of the big T-shaped Cherokee Plant of the Fort Smith Cotton Oil Co. when firemen arrived.

The gigantic blaze was fed by a large quantity of hulls unloaded in the area yesterday.

No injuries resulted from the fire.

W. H. Lillard, president of the firm, said he would not estimate the loss.

Lillard said the quick thinking of employee Richard Walter, who lives near the plant, kept the fire from being even more destructive.

Minutes after nightwatchman S. M. O'Neal discovered the fire at 10 p. m. and turned in an alarm.

Walter reached the scene and ordered all fireproof doors closed.

The 60-foot high structure burned to the ground in less than two hours.

Lillard said 13 to 20 workers generally were employed in the razed section of the 2½ block-long plant. Their work included loading and unloading the inflammable cotton hulls, compressing them, and baling them for livestock feed and other uses.

Three new members of the club were introduced as follows: Ray Turner, Gene White and Horace Fuller. Guests included: Billy J. Smith, Skippy Bryan, and Garvett Connell.

Banks, Loan Asso. Elects New Officers

Hope's two banks and Hope Federal Savings and Loan Association held annual board meetings yesterday with very few changes.

Citizens National Bank re-named the same officers and board with one exception. C. C. Spragins retired as executive vice-president, however he will remain as vice-president and a member of the board.

Other officers: O. A. Graves, chairman of the board; R. M. LaGrone Sr., president; Dale Jones, cashier; Olin Lewis and Raymond J. Jones, assistant cashiers. Board members include O. A. Graves, R. M. LaGrone Jr., C. C. Spragins, Dale Jones, S. L. Reed, Henry Haynes, Albert Graves, N. T. Jewell, George Peck, George W. Robinson and T. F. McFarly.

There was no change in First National Bank officers and board. Lloyd Spencer is president; W. K. Lemley, executive vice-president; Thomas E. Hays, vice-president and cashier; Cecil J. O'Steen, and Gene Chamberlain, assistant cashiers. Board members: Graydon Anthony, Herbert Burns, J. P. Duffie, B. W. Edwards, Vincent Foster, W. H. Gunter Thomas E. Hays, W. K. Lemley, Syd McMath, E. M. McWilliams, Earl O'Neal, Lloyd Spencer and E. P. Stewart.

Hope Federal Savings and Loan Asso. last night elected N. T. Jewell and Frank J. Hill directors for three year terms. Officers elected were J. P. Duffie, president; N. T. Jewell, vice-president; Fred C. Ellis, secretary-manager; Albert Graves, attorney and Duffie D. Booth, assistant secretary.

Secretary Ellis reviewed the growth of the Association at the meeting. The company now has 302 stockholders and more than 90 per cent of these are residents of Hempstead. The Association has 339 loans in Hempstead and adjoining counties.

Military, Postal, Civil Service Pay Increases Proposed by President

Announcement was made today of the retirement of C. C. Spragins as executive vice-president of Citizens National Bank. However, Mr. Spragins will continue to hold the position of vice-president and a member of the board of directors.

Mr. Spragins has been with Citizens National Bank over 55 years, joining the firm when it was first organized in 1902. A native of Blewins, Hempstead County, he came to Hope from Mt. Holly in Union County where his family lived in 1893.

His first job was with W. Y. Foster Store on Second Street as bookkeeper. In 1896 Mr. Foster sold his store to E. S. Greening and George Green. In 1900 he went to work for Hempstead County Bank, a position he kept until Citizens Bank was organized in August 1902. His first job with the bank was bookkeeper. In 1903 he became cashier and in 1951 was named executive vice-president.

McElroy Picks Aides to Plan New Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense McElroy said today he is naming three top-ranking military men and a number of civilians to help him draft plans for reorganizing the Defense Department.

McElroy told newsmen the principal military consultants will be Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Twining's two predecessors in that office, Adm. Arthur W. Radford and Gen. Omar Bradley. McElroy said they have agreed to serve.

Twining is a career Air Force man; Radford a Navy man; and Bradley an Army general of World War I fame.

There will be other consultants representing civilian points of view, McElroy said, but he added he is not ready to name them.

He said there will be no committee to work out the reorganization plan but "I will have highly competent consultants to help me as I consider what recommendations I will make to the President to improve the organization of the Defense Department."

Doctor Dies While Operating on Patient

Surgery on the patient, nearly complete, was finished by another physician.

Doctor Hooper was a native of Batesville and graduate of the University of Arkansas Medical School. He had practiced in Batesville and Dallas.

Survivors include the widow, two daughters and a son.

Rev. Phillip B. delRosario of the Philippines, now a student at Southern Methodist University, was the guest speaker at Hope Lions Club regular noon luncheon Monday at Hotel Barlow.

His subject was "Building Bridges of Understanding" and was highly applauded by members of the club. The minister stated that relations between the United States and the Philippines was very good, and that Communism had been broken down in the Islands.

Rev. delRosario has been speaking in special services at the First Methodist Church in Hope, and also in other churches in America. He was introduced by Rev. Virgil D. Keeley.

There were 45 members present and one other guest, Billy Jack Smith of Hot Springs. Lion President Cline Franks announced that the Mid-Winter Convention of Arkansas Lion Clubs would be held January 25-26 in Camden.

Chief of Police Jack Brown tells this about a local woman: "The officer was leading a funeral procession down a narrow local street when a car approached from the opposite direction. I parked cars along the street made it impossible to pass. This woman kept coming and finally forced Chief Brown to stop the entire funeral procession until she got by. Although considerably irked, the officer let the incident pass."

Sale of city auto tags is lagging considerably according to a report this morning from Charles Reyer, city clerk. Normally the city sells in excess of 2,000 tags by the January 31 deadline. To date only 275 tags have been sold and the month is half gone.

The Religious survey planned for this Sunday afternoon will ask only a few simple questions: name, age, member of what church, local church preference and where you attend Sunday School.

Workers hope to complete the entire city and surrounding area during the afternoon.

State Health Department statistics for the month of October show 30 births in Hempstead and 14 deaths. Heart disease was the worst killer with five while pneumonia caused two deaths.

Howard County had 18 births and 12 deaths, heart disease claiming seven and cancer one.

Lafayette County had 20 as compared to nine deaths of which cancer claimed three and heart disease two.

Nevada county registered 14 births and 10 deaths, cancer was the cause of one and heart disease six.

Service Bill Submitted, Others Soon

By JOHN A. HARRIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a military pay bill which would give most service personnel a raise of at least six per cent, and also provide for merit increases.

The bill was introduced in the House by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, shortly after the White House disclosed details of administration proposals for boosting pay of postal and civil service workers, as well as service personnel.

The raises for all groups would cost about a billion dollars annually. The administration wants the raises to become effective July 1.

Under the Eisenhower program, all military personnel with more than two years' service would get the minimum increase in base pay.

The plan also would give the services greater flexibility in granting periodic raises, placing less emphasis on length of service and giving more consideration to merit.

The administration also is asking these other increases, which will be set forth in separate legislative proposals:

1. A general six per cent increase for the nation's 500,000 postal workers.

2. An increase of at least six per cent for the nearly one million civil service workers.

The White House also said the proposals call for increasing the top salaries of workers in the highest civil service grade from $10,000 a year to $18,000, and would remove the present limit of 1,225 workers who can hold jobs in the top three classifications.

The military pay boost was estimated to cost $18 million dollars in the first year. The general increase would apply to 70 per cent of the uniformed personnel or about 1,800,000, but no raise was proposed for men with less than two years' service, nor for retired military people.

The President, at his first news conference in 2½ months, said he believes some red ink spending would be the only answer under present circumstances if it came to a choice between that and a tax increase in order to handle the proposed new federal budget.

In that connection, Eisenhower parts must be raised as supplies decline and can be reduced as they increase.

Yet an increase in supports would work against policies advocated by Benson. He contends that cotton must be priced cheaply if American growers are to retain and expand markets hit by growing competition by foreign cotton and by synthetic fibers in this country.

An increase in the support rate would make it necessary for the government to dig up more money to finance sales of surplus cotton abroad at the lower foreign market prices.

Benson has been resisting industry pressure to increase 1958 allotments until he can get assurance that Congress will enact a long-range cotton program along lines advocated by the administration.

The administration wants authority to set cotton supports between 60 and 90 per cent of parity. The present rate is 75 to 90 per cent. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

The administration believes that if lower supports are permitted, it would be possible to ease up on present rigid production controls because markets would take larger amounts of the crop and that farmers would earn larger net incomes.

Dogs can be insured from $125 to $13,000. Of the 400 policies written so far, the largest is $5,000 to cover Asta, the dog that stars in "The Thin Man" series on TV. So far only one claim has been filed. A German shepherd was killed by a hit-and-run driver only two days after its owner had taken out a $200 policy.

To guard against the possibility of fraud, his firm requires a certificate from a veterinarian giving the cause of death in the event a claim is made, and proof that the dead dog is actually the one that was insured. This is done by taking its nose print, which is on file with the company.

"The nose prints of dogs are just as individual as the fingerprints of human beings," said Weiss.

noted that his economic advisers are predicting an upturn from the current business recession.

Eisenhower was discussing the $73,900,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 which he sent to Congress Monday.

On paper, it is narrowly in balance with a forecast of a surplus of half a billion dollars based on anticipated tax revenues.

A 400-million-dollar deficit now is in prospect for the current fiscal year, because tax collections have fallen with the decline in business prosperity while spending for defense has gone up.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since Oct. 30. He suffered a minor stroke on Nov. 25.

In reply to questions about his health at this time, he said with a smile that he is feeling very good and would like to get out on the golf course for a couple hours if only there were some sun.

His face was ruddy as of old, and the consensus of the 270 newsmen was that he handled himself well.

There was one instance, near the start of the 30-minute session, when Eisenhower appeared to "fluff" a word or two. But there was no more of that—and quite possibly there was less than before the slight stroke which manifested itself by a temporary speech difficulty.

Eisenhower said he never gave any consideration to resigning after his latest illness. He touched off a round of laughter by adding that his doctors were assuring him a couple hours after the minor stroke that—as the president put it—there was no damage whatever to the intellectual faculties he has.

Small Storms Strike Areas of Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A spreading storm brought continuing bad weather to the Northeast and another storm area—with a mass of arctic air—caused misery in the nation's mid-section today.

In Texas, a handful of small twisters were reported. Most were reported in the air, but one touched ground near Greenville and damaged two barns and two sheds. There were no injuries reported.

The storm moving off the New England coast caused widespread cloudiness and rain as far west as Ohio and parts of Kentucky. Snow flurries occurred through much of the New England states with rain and freezing rain over Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Arctic air, which brought a chill to the northern Plains yesterday, moved southward into the central plains, reaching to the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles.

Derailment Cuts off City's Water Supply

HARDY, Ark. (AP) — This city's water supply was cut off by the mayor's order yesterday as a precautionary measure after a freight car loaded with potash derailed into the Spring River about nine miles north of Hardy.

But State Health Department officials, who had asked Mayor Ben Dalton to take the action, said the contamination was slight and service could be restored to day.

A spokesman for the Health Department said game wardens reported that no fish were killed by the potash in the water.

Health Department investigators said yesterday, shortly after the derailment, that restoration of service depended on how fast the current washed the potash downstream.

Townpeople used water from a 3,000-gallon reserve tank after service was cut off.

The potash car was among 32 that left the tracks when a Frisco train derailed between Hardy and Thayer, Mo., near the Arkansas-Missouri line.

No one was hurt in the derailment. Its cause was undetermined. Half a mile of trackage was tipped up and Frisco trains were rerouted over the Missouri Pacific to Hoxie. Frisco officials expected traffic to be resumed today.

The freight train, No. 133, was en route to Memphis from Kansas City.

British Vessel Feared Aground

OBAN, Scotland (AP) — Swirling fog today hid the fate of the 750-ton British naval vessel Barcombe believed to have gone aground on a desolate island off Scotland's west coast.

DOROTHY DIX

Girls Wrong on the Time
One Year Is Requirement

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a childless widow, engaged to a widower with two children — aged 15 and 17. These youngsters object to their father's remarriage on the grounds that their mother has been dead only 15 months, and they claim he should wait at least two years. The older girl does a make shift job of housekeeping, never mends her father's clothes, doesn't keep the house particularly tidy (they have someone to do the heavy work), is a most indifferent cook, and wouldn't think of spending an evening at home with Dad. In other words, he's neglected and desperately needs someone to care for him. To his children he's just a checkbook. Don't misunderstand me, these youngsters are good children; they're just young and absorbed in their own lives but won't give their father the consideration of realizing that he too wants a life of his own. BRENDA

Dear Brenda: Since the only objection they voice is a matter of timing, you'd be perfectly justified in going ahead with your wedding plans. One year is the conventional period of mourning and you shouldn't incur one word of gossip by stepping off at this time.

Children frequently have a curious jealousy for a dead parent and object strenuously to a second mate taking over. However, they won't do a thing to fill the void left in the home. In fact, some times it seems as if they don't even recognize the loneliness of the bereaved parent. Since these children have no objection to you personally, they'll make a quick adjustment. You may have tough sledding for a few months, but you have many happy years ahead; bolster yourself with that conviction.

Dear Dorothy Dix: This is a response to Glenda's plea of a few weeks ago for suggestions on how to get her sleepy-head husband out of bed in the morning. I had the same trouble and discussed it with my doctor. He suggested a basal metabolism test which showed that my husband's pulse was too low in the morning for him to be able to arouse himself. Of course, this is an unusual case, but if it isn't Glenda's solution, she might try taking him a cup of coffee. This is better than arguing.

FELICIA

Dear Felicia: Thanks for the info, which is hereby passed on.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband is a bus driver, and between trips he and some of the other drivers stand around talking, or have coffee in a nearby lunchroom. I work in the same neighborhood and frequently pass the fellows. Naturally I say, "Hi," to my husband or sit down for a cup of coffee with him. This makes him very angry. He tells me I shouldn't

Lopez Returns Unsigned Contract

PANAMA — Infielder Hector Lopez of the Kansas City Athletics said today he had returned his 1958 contract unsigned because of a cut in salary.

Lopez did not say how much he was offered, but indicated it was substantially lower. He said he felt his 1957 performance was as good a sin previous years and that he saw no justification for a cut.

He said he would not speak to him if he is with his co-workers. I feel I should. Who is right?

H. B. What's the matter with you? Have you got two heads or something? Don't make a habit of barging in on him, but if you must pass occasionally, he's being very foolish to be so abrupt with you. If he wants to be ignored, ignore him. He'll miss you!

Dear Dorothy Dix: Though I'm only 14, I have attracted the attention of a boy 21. He's asked me to go out with him, and has even said he wants to marry me in a few years. I think if I start to go steady with him now, I may find someone else when I'm older. He's a very persistent guy, and just won't take "no" for an answer.

Dear Effie: It's times like this when parents become invaluable. Talk the situation over with Mom, and let her handle the petting. He's too much for you. I'm glad to see you're a sensible girl who isn't swayed by the attentions of an older man.

Miss Temple's First Show Is a 'Delight'

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—"Beauty and the Beast" was a delight. Surely this first in the Shirley Temple's Storybook series on NBC-TV was the most enjoyable fairy tale that has appeared on television since "Peter Pan."
It would be difficult to imagine a more enchanting Beauty than Claire Bloom or a more compelling Beast than Charlton Heston. E. G. Marshall, June Lockhart and Barbara Baxley helped a make-believe world become most credible entertainment in this live color production from Hollywood Sunday evening.
"Beauty and the Beast" combined superb acting and production with a third virtue that has been all too rare in television's previous attempts in never-ending land: fidelity to a story that has endured for centuries. For this was presumably an indebted to Joseph Schrank, who adapted it, and to director Kirk Browning and producer Alvin Cooperman.
Those who saw it in color were especially fortunate. Let us note, too, that Shirley Temple makes a charming hostess.
Cast, production, color, Miss Temple... all might have been wasted if someone had tried to tamper with the familiar story that probably is best known to us today through the Andrew Lang Fairy Books.
Nobody tried to make a musical of it or load it with esoteric psychological meanings or give it a new beginning, middle or end.

Mental Test for Farm Boy Underway

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Hospital staff has been granted an additional 30 days to complete mental tests of farm boy Gary Earl Bright, who killed three members of his family last November. Supt. Granville Jones said yesterday.

Dr. Jones said juvenile Judge Lawrence E. Perry of Benton County authorized the time extension for the examination of the 13-year-old boy. The original 30 days expired yesterday.

Gary shot to death his mother, Mrs. Jewell Irene Bright, 34, and a younger brother and sister in a fit of rage after he was asked to round up the family cows for milking. He then shot himself in the chest. He recovered.

The triple slaying occurred at the Bright home in Benton County last November.

No charge has been filed pending outcome of the mental tests.

way, does not mean a literal translation. In the story Beauty had five sisters and six brothers. On television she had two sisters. In the story she returned home for a two months visit. In television she returned home for 10 days. On television, too, some suspense business was introduced that the story lacks—to the benefit of the drama.

So the television version of "Beauty and the Beast" was genuinely a creative effort that utilized the best technical effects of the medium.

Americans Always Get the Blame

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A tall, blond man, very drunk, tore a Bangkok night club apart one evening. The press in Thailand's capital quickly identified him as a crazy American. He wasn't. He was a Dane.

But Americans get blame for practically everything in Southeast Asia. Anti-Americanism is almost a fact.

However, there's another side. Take Indonesia, for example. In that Asian nation, threatened by mounting Communist strength, American technicians are often the best ambassadors of the United States.

So says James Baird, chief of the International Cooperation Administration program for Indonesia. More American technicians are wanted in that sprawling, strategically important island nation, he says.

The ICA in Washington is planning an increase in "third country" specialists who would be hired by the United States to work with American experts. For example, West German doctors might be assigned to jobs in Iran, their salaries paid out of counter-part funds in local currencies.

The ICA is also operating a third country program in Japan, helping Japanese train other nationals in various techniques.

But underdeveloped Asia seems to want mostly good Americans to help build its economies. It does not want nationals of a third country.

Asian leaders say Romanians.

Will Keep Hermit In Jail Few Days

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff Ernest C. Dyke said today that dog dweller Norbert Laroche would be kept in jail here until receipt of an FBI report about him.

"If the report shows he hasn't broken the law we'll let him go," Dyke said.

Laroche, a small 34-year-old man from Fall River, Mass., told officers who picked him up last week that he had been living in a hollow log about one mile from downtown Newport for the past month.

The sheriff said he still is unable to determine why Laroche chose a log to live in because Laroche "doesn't make sense."

Russians and other Iron Curtain experts wait oftentimes, eager to show their technical assistance wares. They say any reduction in the number of American technicians would likely increase the number of Iron Curtain experts in Asia.

How is the U. S. technical assistance program going in Asia? Here is a look at some of the results:

India Some time ago Washington ordered a big cut in technical personnel for fiscal 1959. Sharp protests from the U. S. mission in India changed Washington's mind and the mission was maintained at its present strength of 230, a rise from 64 in 1952.

Indians say they want more Americans in such fields as education, agriculture, engineering and home economics. Most of it has been in farming, trying to put over modern methods.

The Great Barrier Reef lies off the northeast coast of Australia. It is like a long, irregular wall, 300 to 500 feet high. It is 1,200 miles long, equal to the distance from Maine to Florida. Only small parts of the reef show above the surface of the ocean. The reef provides a protected channel for ships sailing from Brisbane to Cape York.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mrs. L. C. Bates, Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, pleaded innocent in Circuit Court here today to a charge of violating the Bennett ordinance.

Acting Judge Wayne W. Owens passed the case until February. Mrs. Bates was arraigned on a misdemeanor appeal. She was fined $100 in Little Rock Municipal Court last month when she declined to submit a membership

Harris' Group Talks Over Pay Television

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Communications Commission official summoned Federal Communications Commission officials today to discuss pay television.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said his group wanted to develop "views from all sides" and he expected hearings would run more than a week.

Today's first scheduled witness was Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) who has introduced a bill which would prohibit pay TV.

Harris, talking to a reporter, said the principle of pay TV was a departure from the thinking of Congress when the FCC act was enacted.

"In my opinion the act set out that the spectrum was free to any user, that anybody who has a radio or TV set can turn it on and get a program without having to pay," Harris said.

He added he does not think it would be in the public interest to charge for programs.

Harris also said he believed the FCC lacked authority under present laws to act on pay TV applications.

Meyers Out at A&M, Erdelatz Has Inside

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Navy's Eddie Erdelatz, latest big time football coach to cruise to the Texas A&M campus, said he's free to drop anchor if he is offered the Aggie post today.

But about the only positive fact to emerge from a flurry of developments yesterday was that Erdelatz has a return trip airline ticket to Annapolis.

Jim Meyers of Iowa State, the top prospect before Erdelatz was secretly interviewed by A&M representatives, was jettisoned yesterday, leaving Erdelatz the only coach under consideration.

The Dallas News said Meyers never gained approval of the college Board of Directors. He had been given a deadline of yesterday to decide whether to stay at Iowa State and apparently with no firm offer, bowed out.

Basilio Turns Attention to Robinson

NEW YORK (AP)—After a night of being feted as the 1957 "Fighter of the Year," middleweight champion Carmen Basilio turned to serious business today.

The 30-year-old former Marine and his co-managers, Johnny DeJohn and Joe Nervo, will confer with Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, regarding terms for a return title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson. He de-throned Robinson with a split 15-round decision in their torrid scrap last September.

Although Robinson currently is involved in legal troubles, the return bout is regarded as virtually set for Chicago sometime in March. The dates of March 18 and March 25 have been mentioned.

The cracky-faced former onion farmer from Chittenango, N.Y., after he had received the Edward J. Nell memorial plaque as "Fighter of the Year" at the Boxing Writers Assn. dinner last night.

"I want to beat Robinson more than any fighter I ever met," Basilio said. "I want to win decisively so that there will be no question about it."

The Last Standdown
by L. P. HOLMES

THE STORY: On his way to the scene of an Indian uprising, Ward Sebastian becomes well acquainted with Connie Ashland, sister of a young lieutenant escorting the train.

CHAPTER XV

Ward Sebastian figured the passage of time and distance made his estimate of time of arrival. The pace of the string had begun to slow, the mules shaking the effect of the grime. When Sebastian in her strong head shake presently, Lieutenant Ashland and that she'd have none of it. A chance to turn his head, Sebastian little later she reined over to his side once more.

"So you are not only a positive man, but a considerate one. I thank you, but must decline your kind suggestion."

A flicker of amusement showed in Sebastian's eyes. "And last night I was the one called stubborn! You intend to fight it out along this line if it takes all night, is that it?"

She gave him a ghost of a smile in return. "Exactly, my uniform-hating friend."

"Here—here!" he exclaimed. "I can't be that bad."

"It's quite all right," she cut in. "I've been doing some thinking and I've arrived at the conclusion that we in the military can stand a little jostling and criticism—that it is good for us. We live in such a tight little world of our own, we are apt to lose our perspective. Your kind of rugged independence and straight thinking is good for us."

"Then," Sebastian said, "you're not entirely out of patience with me?"

"No, not now. At any time I may change my mind and claw you furiously."

"That," he declared, "is a gamble. I'm happy to take it. I wish home was closer. You're growing pretty weary."

"A little," she admitted. "Perhaps the miles would be shorter if you used some of them to tell me about yourself."

"I came here by wagon train as a small boy. My father left me the beginnings of a ranch. I've managed to build that up pretty well, and to get this outfit of pack mules together. Between the two, I make a fair living."

"You make it sound entirely too simple. It actually must be very rugged."

Riding in silence, she mused on this, contrasting it with her own situation. As far back as she could remember, her world had been a succession of military posts, first with her uncle, then with her brother Phil, after he had won his commission. In many ways it had not been at all a bad life, but neither had it been a particularly rewarding one.

The dominant note had been a changeless sameness. No matter where the military post, how large or small, they were basically alike. It was a life which in all too many cases skidded dangerously close to being one of genteel poverty. You followed the flag and left youth and beauty alone the trail of regulation and monotony.

Daylight ran out and night came down. Unseen on either hand in night's complete blackness, low, lava ridges pinched in to make a narrow and a shallow pass. Sebastian knew the feel of the place, recognized the small echoes of passage which bounced back from the low rims. He broke the silence that had held between the girl and himself.

"Count 20, slow, and then look. You'll see the lights of home."

Connie Ashland did as he suggested. Halfway through the count, she felt her horse swing left a trifle, then, reaching full count, she saw the lights he said she would.

Sam Lester sent his thin yell knifing across the dark. "Ward! we're running! into something. More military, I think."

"I'll go," called Lieutenant Phil Ashland. "I'll handle this." He was gone with a rush.

They waited out the slow minutes, wondering. Across the black distance came the small emphasis of a sentry's challenge, followed by the faint echoing of other voices. Then Phil Ashland came spurting back.

"Troops," he reported briefly. "A company of the 21st Infantry and one of Oregon militia. Quartered at your ranch, Mr. Sebastian, until further notice."

They went ahead, and the flickering lights resolved into campfires, and there were sentries and gruff voices everywhere, so it seemed to Connie Ashland.

Sebastian helped her from her saddle and guided her stiffened steps to a ranch-house door, which, when he pushed it open, let out a flood of light and warmth. In the room beyond, white-haired Mrs. Cayle and black-haired Kitty Dutra were talking to a grizzled major of infantry. Mrs. Cayle exclaimed: "Ward! We weren't expecting you for days, yet."

"Military business," he told her briefly. "And here is another guest for you to take under your warm wing, Miss Connie Ashland."

"Connie Ashland!" It was the grizzled officer exclaiming in deep, rumbling tones. "It's that nice of mine."

"It is," Connie cried. "Uncle Ross!"

lending funds for the staff of new projects, the Bureau of the Budget is proposing nothing more than a wind-up operation for this vital resource development program.

"The ban on new starts puts the finger firmly on the withpiping of the whole water development program."

"As for the cut-backs on existing projects, it is no consolation to say that the cuts are not as severe as they might have been. The river and harbor program sustained a cut of approximately 7 per cent below budget estimates in the last appropriation bill. The cuts proposed in the new budget estimates are superimposed upon those made last year."

Amendment Measure Gets Ballot Title

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett yesterday okayed the ballot title and form of amendment proposed by segregationist leader Jim Johnson of Crossett.

Johnson will need approximately 40,000 signatures of qualified voters to place the measure on the ballot of the November general election.

The proposed amendment, among other things, would cut off state money to schools integrated by court order, provide for closing and possible sale of schools integrated without a majority vote of the school district, prohibit a governor from appointing more than two highway commissioners, automatically refer to popular vote any tax increases passed by the Legislature and establish character and literacy qualifications for voting.
